

FORMER GOVERNOR SUPPORTS AYCOCK

Glenn Makes Avowal of Stand in North Carolina Senatorial Fight.

MONTAGUE RELEASED ON BAIL

Fire in Cotton Oil Mill—Charters by State—Other Raleigh News.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Raleigh, N. C., June 9.—The avowal of the cause of ex-Governor Charles B. Aycock in his candidacy for the United States Senate by ex-Governor Glenn announced from Hickory, did not come as any surprise. Ex-Governor Glenn called on ex-Governor Aycock on the occasion of his recent visit to Raleigh and declared to newspaper men that if Aycock should get into the race he would give him his most ardent support. He stated at that time that "way back in 1898, during the sensational State campaign of that year, he had told Aycock that if ever he entered the race for the United States Senate he should have his support."

A call was issued to-day by the Corporation Commission for reports of the condition of banks at the close of business June 7. This call applies to all the banking interests in the State except the national banks.

Charles A. Seaparks, justice of the peace and coroner of Wake county, has released H. W. Montague, the slayer of Buck Roberson, on $2,000 bond, for his appearance at the July term of Wake Superior Court to answer the charge of manslaughter. Montague killed Roberson in a pistol duel last Sunday night as the result of a quarrel between the two men, involving attentions that Montague had been paying Roberson's sister. They were at the home of R. H. Elicks, and Miss Flossie Hicks narrowly escaped being shot in her efforts to stop the fight. Montague is from Greenville. His $2,000 justified bond was given by kinsman and friends in both counties.

Conference Ends.
The second annual conference of the clergy and laity of the Episcopal Church in North and South Carolina, at St. Mary's School, the parochial college for girls in the Carolinas, came to a successful close to-day. It was pronounced decidedly successful and profitable, and the attendance was gratifyingly large. The features of the session to-day were Holy Communion at 7:30 A. M.; address at 9 o'clock, by Rev. J. F. Mallett, Salisbury, on "The Church and the Mission," address by Rev. L. N. Caley, on "Preparation and Presentation of the Sunday School Lesson," address by Eugene M. Camp, New York, on "The Church and Social Service," address by Rev. C. P. Wilcox, on "Work Among the Mill People."

A fire that smoldered in the oil mill of the North Carolina Cotton Oil Company for six hours or longer to-day, before it was finally extinguished by the Raleigh fire fighters, did really less than $200 damage, except in the way of saturating the place with a dense oil and lint smoke, the effects of which will be difficult to clear away. The fact that the fire was smoldering in inaccessible places, and that it filled the whole place with a dense smoke made the fire-fighting most difficult and long drawn out. The mill had not been operating for several days, and the origin of the fire is unaccounted for.

The Raleigh school committee had decided to erect a handsome brick grammar school building in Glenwood, one of Raleigh's most flourishing suburbs. The committee is also preparing to materially enlarge the Pilot Mills school building.

Caroline Austin (colored) died here last night at the well authenticated advanced age of 105 years. Her whole life was spent in this county.

Steady progress is being made in the review of the documentary evidence and depositions bearing on the $1,200,000 damage suit of Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company vs. the American Tobacco Company for the destruction of the plaintiff's business through trust methods of destroying competition. ## OPINION OF COURT IN RAILROAD CASE

Affirms Action of Corporation Commission in Washington-Southern Appeal.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Wytheville, Va., June 9.—Judge Keith, in the opinion of the court handed down in the case of the Washington-Southern Railway Company, affirming the action of the Corporation Commission, after reviewing the proceedings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the fixing of a general maximum rate of passenger rate of 2 1/2 cents per mile, which has been acquiesced in by all of the leading railroads of the State, and stating that the short line of the appellant, controlled (through stock ownership) by the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Potomac, the Potomac and Eastern, the Southern and the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroads, is a mere incident to the substantial business of the company, and so inconsiderable and of such minor importance as to render the ordinary operation of distribution of burdens and benefits between the appellant and the intrastate business impracticable.

The opinion declares that on data furnished by the appellant itself, if the operation of the road were apportioned on the basis of the volume of interstate and intrastate business, respectively, and 5 per cent of the joint business allowed to intrastate traffic, the appellant would be unable to plant, or even to maintain, any sort of a railroad between the terminals of the Washington-Southern.

Moreover, the opinion says, it was admitted by counsel in argument that the maximum rate of 2 1/2 cents per mile on intrastate travel would not yield a fair return on the capital invested upon any apportionment of values submitted to the commission. This admission shows the impracticability of the circumstances of this case of making a reasonable return on the capital invested from intrastate travel solely the basis for the establishment of a maximum passenger rate.

In the case of the appellant, the Northern Pacific Railroad is referred to as distinguished from the one at bar, the court holding that there is no contention on the part of the appellant that its earnings from its general operations, even at a lesser rate than the maximum fixed by the commission, are not ample to meet all its demands upon it and to make a fair return upon the capital invested for service rendered to the public.

The record shows that in the unstrained course of business the company adopted a lower schedule of charges, both for interstate and intrastate passenger service, than the rate allowed by the commission, which fact alone would seem to afford a conclusive answer to contentions.

Shoemaker, assignee, vs. Shoemaker's administrator, argued by W. W. Bird, for appellant, and G. W. Wilson, for appellee, and submitted.

Campbell vs. Dotson, argued by E. S. Finney, for appellant, and W. A. Daugherty and Roland E. Chase, for appellee, and continued until to-morrow morning.

The next cases to be called are as follows: Slaughter vs. Good et al.; Hall vs. Graham, Sheriff vs. Administrator, Wampler vs. Sheriff et al.; Miller, trustee, vs. Town of Pulaski; Kent et al., vs. Dobyns, Oglesby & Co., vs. Lindsey et al.

GERMAN AVIATORS FALL FROM CLOUDS

Schenkel and His Mechanic, Voss, Drop From Height of 6,650 Feet.

Johannstahl, Germany, June 9.—Herr Schenkel, who on Tuesday established a German altitude of 6,654 feet in an airplane, fell this evening with his mechanic, Voss, and both were instantly killed. Schenkel was trying to eclipse the world's altitude record with a passenger.

The aviator, who was practically a beginner, arose this evening in a Dornier monoplane, and had reached a height of 6,650 feet when the monoplane was seen to assume a vertical position, and it is believed that Schenkel was trying to glide to earth with his motor shut off. Once for a brief period he seemed to have righted the machine, but almost immediately again lost control, and the monoplane shot to earth with terrific speed, landing just outside the aviation field. So great was the velocity of the fall that the prop of the machine was buried in the earth. The bodies of Schenkel and Voss were frightfully mangled.

A Matchless Milk That

Cost Us $100,000

It has taken seven years, and has cost us a fortune, to produce such a milk as you now get in Van Camp's.

We have aimed to supply you—here in America—such milk as one gets in Switzerland and Holland. We brought here for that purpose famous Swiss and Dutch experts.

We built evaporating plants in the best dairying sections. They are model plants, copied from the finest in the world. We stocked our dairies with Holstein cows. And we have solved the problem of bringing to you their whole, rich milk in a sterile form.

We now have a milk which every home would adopt today if they knew it.

8% Butter Fat

This milk, as it comes to us, is as thick as thick cream. It is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat.

The whole, rich milk, as it comes from the cow, is put into a vacuum. There, at a low heat, two-thirds of the water is removed by evaporation. That is done to save on shipping cost.

When you get the milk you can replace the water. Add one part water if you use it for coffee. For cooking or drinking reduce to the richness wanted.

If you reduce this milk to the usual milk's richness, the cost will figure about six cents per quart.

Cooking With Cream

To cook with this milk is much like cooking with cream. It gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which milkman's milk never supplies.

The reason is this: Milkman's milk separates, before and after you get it. The butter fat rises and the solids fall. You never get the whole milk from a can that stands awhile.

The milk which gets to your cooking is rarely more than a half-milk. Van Camp's is the whole milk. A single milk dish made with this milk will make you forever a convert.

Utterly Sterile

Our cows are inspected. Our dairies are sanitary. Our evaporating plants are conducted by hospital rules. Then all the milk is pasteurized after the can is sealed.

The result is an absolutely germless milk. A milk which you know is safe.

Every drop of milkman's milk contains a myriad germs. There is not one germ in a gallon of Van Camp's. Think what it means to have, for every purpose, a milk that is utterly sterile.

Cow in the Pantry

You will buy Van Camp's a case at a time when you learn what it means to you. That will be a month's supply. Open a can when you need it. It will keep until you use it.

It is like a cow in the pantry. Rich milk or cream whenever you want it. Never a shortage, never any waste.

And it costs you less than milkman's milk. We save the cost of the daily delivery, which exceeds the cost of the milk.

We are milking 30,000 cows per day to supply the people who have tried this milk. Please find out why they like it. A single can will tell you all the story. It will solve your milk problem forever.

The 16-oz. can—a full pint of Van Camp's—costs 10 cents. The 6-oz. can costs 5 cents. Evaporated and sealed at our dairies in six states. Order from your grocer.
